He was a dedicated and hardworking employee who became part of the family. Although Don worked hard, he played even harder. Fueled by a fire that burned within him, he was always the life of the party. Free spirited, with a love of Rock and Roll music, he enjoyed attending concerts while singing to the top of his lungs and playing air guitar, fishing, and spending time with his friends. His favorite song "Fifty" by Kid Rock pretty much summed up his life.

A loyal friend, Don, was always there to lend a hand or cheer you up on your darkest day. His presence will be deeply missed by all who knew and loved him.
